We could not get it itione by night; indeed, we were watched day and night, and gunn were ilischarged over the grounds of Captain Bradshaw to prevent us. I can state further that I was twica turned off Mr. Bradshaw's grounds by his mer; and they said, if I did not go instantly, they would take me to Worsley."

Among people who have any sense, these ridicu loue fannticinus are usually folioned by a wholesome reaction. It is said to be a difficult thing to find a man in either New York or Priladelphia who is willing to remember that he was ever opposed to street railways. And yet the same species of opposition, with the same reasone, prehence, and limaginary canneas of disturbance, have to be repeated in every place where such improvements are proposed. Nor leit to be supposed that they are insincere. A large number of our fellow-citizens are a earnest and as eiver in their opposition to railways in our streets as the people of Crete are to the construction of a carriage road smong their mountains, and for reasons precisely equivalent. They occurred to the first man who, opposed a boe no an innovation, bad in precedent, and dangeroue to the fabric of society, as they will to the last man who, before the end of the world, shall proised a gaussithat discovery which puts the crown of campleteness to the application of a carrier to the useful arts.

SAVERBAY'S ELECTION,-The Democrats are prerving a studied silence in reference to the election of magistrates at d countables to take place to-mor row, in the expectation that they can steal a march apon us and achieve a victory through our lukwarmness and negligence. It is highly important that good, experienced magistrates and faithful es should be alected, and as in most instances for their attention to business and the facilities they have afforded to all litigants, the nudivided empori of avery member of the Opposition party. It must be remaidered, too, that this election, lead as It is entirely, will have its influence on the Gubern storial campaign; and if the friends of Mr. Bell do not maintain their majority, the fact will be seized upon by the Democracy and used with damaging aff ct, as an evidence that the popularity of our gallant t no one be deterred from the performance of that r National Importance. The magistrates of our city, and the constables charged with the collection of debts and the serving of legal papers, should be
